

Question-Starters for Break-out Sessions

What successes can you share with the group relative to the topic?

What challenges have you faced that you solved?

Would you like a suggestion for handling a specific learning situation?

Self-care

1. How do you balance the tasks in your life?
2. What skills calm you when frustrated?
3. What cheers you when you feel defeated?
4. How do you stay in touch?
5. What enables you to get enough sleep?
6. Food suggestions for these times?
7. Good books you've read?
8. Favorite, engaging film, video, TV?

Live-Streamers

1. How do you...or do you...modify lessons for live-streamers?
2. What technique have you developed to track attendance for quarantined students?
3. What routine have you established to begin class that avoids the frenzy and uses time well?
4. When you, the teacher, are absent, the sub cannot pull in the live-streamers.
What kind of work do you give the live-streamers? What directions do you give them for learning that day?
5. When live-streamers have technical problems, what solutions have you used?

Engagement under Plastic...aka Discussions, thinking and active learning without proximity

1. How did you successfully have a discussion while student have shields up?
2. How have you used break-out rooms? How did you learn to use break-out rooms?
3. How can you design group work and maintain social distancing?
4. While you are "under plastic," how has affected or changed discussion?
5. In a lab-type situation, how have you created social-distancing? Teamwork?
6. Have you managed any whole-class conversations? How did you do so safely?
7. If you don't use much discussion, how did you create student interactions?

Assessment tools and Tips during Covid

1. What assessment types have you used successfully?
2. How have you managed make-up work?
3. How avoid copying/cheating/plagiarism?
4. When students submit work using incorrect tech tools, what do you do?
5. Have you used GradeCam for assessment? If so, how? Have you tried Student Portal?
6. What resources, tools would be helpful to make this task more successful?